3rd Sino ship enters shoal

PH warship sails to Poro Point

By Tina G. Santos and Dona Z. Pazzibugan

THE PHILIPPINE Navy's flagship, BRP Gregorio del Pilar, withdrew from the disputed Scarborough Shoal yesterday morning even as a third Chinese civilian ship entered the area on the third day of a standoff.

"It has been pulled out for provisioning. I think it will go to Poro Point, but it has been replaced by a Coast Guard vessel," Foreign Secretary Albert del Rosario told reporters.

Navy Flag Officer in Command Vice Adm. Alexander Pina confirmed that the BRP Gregorio del Pilar was being pulled out from Poro Point to replenish fuel and food provisions at Poro Point in La Union province.

"It's definitely not a retreat on the basis of the position that we took that this is ours. There's another Philippine Coast Guard vessel that will be there to continue to enforce what we started," Pina said. "That area is ours, there is absolutely no doubt about that. That is ours."

Del Rosario, who is working to defuse tensions over the resource-rich shoal in talks with Chinese Ambassador Ma Keping, downplayed the arrival of yet another Chinese vessel in the area 220 kilometers west of Manila province.

DOE: Mindanao to get some power relief by May 19

By Amy R. Renna

BY MAY 19, the people in Mindanao may get some relief from the long hours of rotating brownouts plaguing the island since the beginning of the year.

Energy Secretary Jose Benito G. Almonte said on Wednesday.

"The good news is that we will shut down from April 17 to May 19 the 255-megawatt (MW) Pinali facility as that we may be able to produce 100 MW more from the plant—meaning there is more, that is, less water levels at the dam are good," Almonte said at a dinner-briefing with business editors, reporters and columnists at the newspaper's editorial offices. Almonte said the Department of Energy was also looking to top-off the 75-MW power plant by diesel-fired power plants of certain distribution utilities and industrial firms to help shore up supply on the island.

That, he said, would ease the

TAICHUNG CITY—It was a case of being in the wrong place, at the wrong time.

A Filipino domestic helper was killed as Hung Hing when a Chinese woman, who stepped off the rooftop of a building in an apparent suicide attempt, fell on top of the Filipino (GMA network).

According to a report from Huang Kang received by the Chinese Workers' Welfare Administration (Chinese) office in London, Lourdes Hall, 49, was just passing by a building in Taihoo when Huang Kang, about 21 a.m. on April 4 when a thorough Chinese woman jumped from the building.

But the Chinese woman, identified only as Yin, landed on top of Nishi, a victim of 14 long-term sexual abuse who had been working as a domestic helper in the former British colony for 20 years.

But, the witness report said, was rushed to Florida's South Broward Medical Hospital where she died a few hours later due to internal injuries.

Buffy's response was to sit at Victoria's Ministry in Krasnodar, Wong Pung. This last known address in Hong Kong was that of Fong Kwan, Wong Pung, 24 Peking Street.

Atleides Pelidatos, regional Ocris administrator, said the report from the Ocris office in Hong Kong described Yes, Ocris as "emotionally disturbed" following an argument with her boyfriend the night before she jumped off her building.

He said no other details were presented at Tuesday's trial.

Her remains were expected to be repatriated after the processing of documents, said Perle's office.

Checkpoints: Don't get out of your car!

By Of Top

DOWN your rights and don't do anything more when you are approaching a police or military checkpoint. Never get out of the car. Do not submit to a body search, but you may refuse to open your trunk or glove compartment.

The Philippine Human Rights (PHR) yesterday issued guidelines for proper conduct at checkpoints for police or as part of what is called "rights-based policing."

"The public authority gains maximum access to deal with authorities at checkpoints and ensure its implementation on proper conduct and actions to avoid violations of human rights," Chief Judge Agnes Cruz Jr. (PHR) spokesperson, said in a statement.

Cruz said the advisory should also serve as a warning to army policemen and encourage the elimination of illegal checkpoints.

"In the protection of rights-based policing becomes a final point on the agenda of the PHR leadership, the conduct of police or law enforcement must be in compliance with human rights standards," Director General Human Resources, the PHR chief, said.

The advisory follows:

"The checkpoints must be well lighted, properly identified and immediately informed personnel. Upon approach, slow down, use headlights and turn on cabin lights. Do not stop out of the vehicle. Look all around. Only stop and search is allowed. Do not submit to a physical or body search. Do not use obliged to open glove compartment, trunk or bag.

NORTHERN POLICE On a road in the northern region.

Ordinary invasion questions may be asked. Be courteous but firm with answers. Assert your rights, have patience of mind and do not panic. Keep your driver's license and car registration handy and within reach. Be ready to use your cell phone in an emergency. Speed-dial emergency numbers. Report violations immediately from within the vehicle.

The PHR chief said, "never obstruct 'no car' or 'clear window' policy for marked police vehicles and similar official vehicles in least public confidence in the police."

The policy "promotes accountability in government and may discourage misconduct checks on civilians," Cruz said.

He explained: "The use of dark or heavy tinted windows and other similar law enforcement equipment. But for other purposes, this is used for marked vehicles which are readily identifiable and cannot reasonably be mistaken for private vehicles."

Today, Cruz said, given some people a sense of security that makes them refuse even the slightest of help, such as traffic rules.

Marcos crony ordered to return $50-M loot

The Republic professes that Daitel used his influence and close relationship with President Marcos to obtain and misuse large amounts of money which he subsequently wasted in various accounts," the memo ended in a discussion issued on April 11.

Although it found Marcos to have had a "personal financial interest" in the transaction, the findings also said that there was no evidence to show that either Marcos or his wife, Imelda, received any part of the funds, none from the BPPF fund.

"Considering that there is no preponderant evidence that disallows Marcos from owning any part of these companies, the Court cannot pronounce any liability on his part," the board opinion said.

Pay-offs shared with dictator

The court also found no evidence to support several other allegations of the government, such as that Marcos ordered the transfer and withdrawal of funds from the National Treasury, the General Bank and other depository institutions; that Marcos and Daitel unduly influenced government funds to be used for their own benefit; and that Daitel acted as a trustee for the Marcoses in controlling several corporations.

The decision ruled on Civil Case 00023 in connection with the BPPF that the Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) filed in the Sandiganbayan in 1987, against Marcos, Imelda and Ferdinand Jacobo, an officer of the Daitel-owned Florida Corp. Jacobo moved away from the US and was not a witness in the civil case. The ruling was passed by Justice Rafael Lopez and concurred in by Justices Rodolfo Peralta and Olivero de la Cruz.

The government charged Daitel of having facilitated the issue of the BPPF contract to two US firms, the Foster & Wheeler engineering company and Washington Electric Co., which allegedly paid Daitel $14 million in bribes. The pay-offs allegedly were to companies in connection with the BPPF.

Marcos mismanaged deal

In an April 11 ruling, the Sandiganbayan and Daitel sued by the BPPF contract for "wrongful use and abuse of power, and for conspiracy to defraud," and for conspiracy to defraud.

The decision ruled that Daitel and Marcos were close associates or relatives by affinity, and that Marcos agreed to have Daitel act as the exclusive agent for the two US firms in the BPPF transaction.

It said Marcos' participation in the transaction was driven by his financial interest in the BPPF deal.

"The Washington contract was a very lucrative deal not to reach the attention of the President, and given Daitel's special position in the Marcos circle of associates, it would not be surprising that his imagination helped to profit from the deal," the court said.

It also found "misuse" of the trust of attention that Marcos and Daitel gave to the power plant contract, as well as their attempts to misuse funds and the substantial amount of funds they received.

"And the only reason this court could think of behind the former President's level of intervention in the BPPF contract is personal financial interest," it added.

Still alive cases

The case proceeded as witness Jacobo, the president of Daitel's Florida Corp., Health Vice President Angelo Washington and Washington representatives in Japan, Peru, and the Philippines.

Marcos testified on how his father became involved in the BPPF project, as well as on the decision of Daitel and Marcos Jacobo and Washington to establish the close personal relationship between Daitel and Daitel.

According to state prosecutors, Daitel was the dictator's go-to guy. He was arrested in 1986, but given Daitel's special position in the Marcos circle of associates, it would not be surprising that his imagination public officials and violation of the Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act).

In 1987, Justice Claudio Velez Jr. ordered the filing of graft and bribery charges against Daitel.

The PCCB elevated the case to the Supreme Court where it ruled against the filing of graft and bribery charges against Daitel.

He was ordered arrested by the Sandiganbayan in 2006 but has paid a bail of P14,000 and remains free since then. It would be interesting to know if he is allowed to leave the country and return to the US.

Worst deal nightmare

The nuclear power plant deal has been the worst deal in the country's worst deal nightmare.

Construction of the $2-billion Bataan Nuclear Power Plant, which was a 201-billion peso contract awarded to Foster & Wheeler in 1974, was completed in 1984 at the inflated cost of $2.1 billion, more than twice the original cost of $1 billion.

In April 1986, President Corason Aquino and Daitel the BPPF because of safety concerns, until then, that the plant was built on an earthquake fault.

In 1986, the Aquino government filed a suit in the US against Washington Electric and Foster & Wheeler for bribery, fraud and misappropriation of funds. The case was filed in the US District Court for the District of Columbia.

$100-M suit levied

In 1995, the Aquino government filed a $100-million suit against Washington Electric and Foster & Wheeler.

But Filipino taxpayers were still left with the burden of paying for the loans incurred by the BPPF project, whose interest payments alone amounted to $50,000 a day, as officials have claimed.

It was only in 2007 that the Philippine fully paid up the country's BPPF obligations totaling $1.1 billion.

US sues Apple, publishers over e-book pricing

THE STATE Department stepped directly into the fight over the future of digital books Wednesday—and Amazon came out the winner.

In an action that could lower the prices of e-books and shift the expanding market in Amazon's favor, the Justice Department stopped Apple and five of the largest book publishers with an antitrust lawsuit, charging that the companies colluded to raise the prices of e-books.

The announcement, made in Washington by Attorney General John M. Walker, Jr. and Stuart A. Rosen, the acting assistant attorney general of the Justice Department's criminal division, capped a long investigation. The inquiry hinged on the question of whether publishers, at the instigation of Steven H. Ades, the Apple's third restriction, agreed to adopt a new policy in 2013, that is ensuring resellers don't offer a newly released iPhone at the price offered in Apple's iStore—typically between $12.99 and $14.99.

At the time, Apple was in Manhattan (but was trying to challenge Amazon's hold on the e-book market, Amazon, the online retail giant, had become a kind of Wal-Mart for the e-book business) by lowering the price of most new and best-selling e-books to $9.99—a price meant to stimulate sales of its own e-books (see also Kindle).

Patrollers, looking for evidence against hunters, now apply as their white liegals. The Nation Department complaint, using language that would have been inspired by a head-office when cellular phone records, do not know connections from the publishing companies and do not discuss business matters "in private rooms for dinner or in upscale Manhattan restaurants, tried to hide their connections from by making conversations in "double-deck" e-mails, all the time conspiring of means of increasing influence over the national media.

Ultimately, the Justice Department charges, the publishers and Apple conspired to block e-book price competition, increasing Amazon's e-book retail prices and ensuring "you cannot pay less than millions of dollars more for e-books than they otherwise would have paid."

These publishers that were in circulation, the Maritime Book Group, Susan B. Schwartz and Margaret Hoffman, have already agreed to a settlement that will most likely involve their joining united. Macmillan and Franklin Group USA, which were also named in the suit, have not reacted.

For instance, the unit and evaluation could ultimately pave the way for lower school grades. The politicians who have worked are prepared to end their school-reform with pupils and only other teachers with a "more focused nation class," which says that no other teacher can self-learn for a better grade. For two years, the politicians, as also predicted from comparing one teacher's ability to influence school.

For Amazon, whose share of the e-book market has soared to tion is 90 percent from about 70 percent since 2010, the Justice Department writes in a major privacy report one of its top rivals, Apple. In anticipation of the announcement, Reuters already appeared poised to drop another bombshell.

'This is a big win for Klutznick owners, and we look forward to being affiliated with more publishers and Klutznick books,' Andrew Rodman, a spokesperson for Klutznick, tells us.

An Apple spokesperson declined to comment. AppleInsider, for Wagner & Mittle, whose popular Mac user weblog is online about 20 percent of the market after the new pricing plan revealed Amazon, said the retailer had no comment. Apple has about 17 percent of the market, several publishers said.

The Justice Department is investigation but not of students among students who live Americans huge influence over the market. Scott Tarnes, the president of the Business Guild, learned in an open letter last month from the Justice Department about the scope of killing and competition in which to save the appearance of a competition.<sup>1</sup> He added, "This would be enough for all of us who value books, and the culture they represent."

According to the Justice Department lawsuit, the chief executives of the publishing companies met more than seven months to "discuss confidential business and corporate information, including America's book publishing practices."

Ceasefire in Syria appears to hold

DAMASCUS—A United Nations (UN)-backed ceasefire to end 33 months of bloodshed in Syria appeared to be holding after coming into force at daybreak Thursday despite doubts about the regime's compliance with the peace plan.

Chaos weakened Syria's decision to uphold a "comprehensive ceasefire" described as a temporary, a political solution, as Russia called for more time for the peace plan to work.

And the opposition urged people to take advantage of the cease-fire as a withdrawal, according to UN.

"The situation is calm in all regions," said Syria's Arab League of the United Nations Syria, an Observatory for Human Rights.

A "few explosions" were heard in the town of Latakia, but outside the capital, shortly after the ceasefire came into effect, Arab League told AFP to believe.

"There have not been any announcements indicating a withdrawal of troops," he added.

Arabia in Damascus, Syria, and those reported that also he proceeded since the ceasefire took effect.

The report could not be verified due to the Damascus government's control over the media.

"The war will be continued when the government takes to the streets" after the Syrian Arab League, said a spokesman for the regime.

Electronics, gold led export surge in Feb.

By Rex T. Ochoyos

PHILIPPINE exports grew by a double-digit rate in February, from the 3-percent increase reported in January, with electronics and gold leading the charge, according to the National Statistics Office.

Export earnings in February rose year-on-year by 14.6 percent to $4.415 billion from $3.855 billion recorded in the same month last year. On a monthly basis, national shipments increased by 3.4 percent from the $3.122 billion posted in January 2012, the NSO report showed.

The National Economic and Development Authority (Neda) said that exporters' performance during the month came as a "pleasant surprise," especially after the sector went through eight months of consecutive decline since May 2011 before it slightly increased in January.

"Electronics also achieved double-digit growth, faster than we've expected. This boost will be our QOP (gross domestic product) growth numbers," Neda assistant director general for policy and planning Felyssa B. Saguisa said in a text message.

What exports were a major drag to GDP growth in 2011 is too early to tell if exports are building momentum, but the modest growth gives "some glimmers of hope," Inquirer's E. Sison of the UP School of Economics said via email.

"Exports grew by 8.8 percent during the first two months of the year. The exports growth performance is much less than 100% (single-digit) in Philippines' 15 percent growth forecast of 10 percent. But on the positive side, the two consecutive months of modest exports growth suggest that Philippine exports might

Asia's emerging economies told to be on their guard

By Michelle V. Flores

THE PHILIPPINES and other emerging economies in the region should be on their guard against any volatility in foreign capital inflows that may arise from a global recession in the near term, according to Asian Development Bank.

The probability of "large swings" in foreign capital flows should not be discounted, that is why emerging markets in Asia must have measures in place to protect their economies, ADB said.

The multilateral institution said it would be vulnerable for Asia's emerging markets to discuss among themselves common policies that they could implement to minimize risks brought on by large fluctuations in foreign capital flows.

"If large swings of capital flows in the region reverse, various measures of capital flow management may be deployed, but they require regional cooperation to be effective," ADB said in its report, "Asian Development Outlook 2012."

Foreign capital flows, especially portfolio funds, tend to move volatile

PH targets more flights to S. Korea, Japan, China

By Paolo G. Manalac

SOUTHEAST Asia, Japan and China have topped the government's list of "priority" markets that the Philippines needs to increase flights to in order to attract more tourism and spur economic growth.

Department of Transport and Communications (DOTC) showed Thailand and Indonesia rounding out the list of top five markets based on flight "source market" for tourism.

"The prioritization of these markets is in line with our country's thrust to promote tourism as a pillar of our overall economic strategy," documents submitted by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) in the office of Transportation and Communications Secretary Manuel "Man" Rosas II read.

"These figures

reflect sectors, such as tourism growth potential, advanced regional economic profiles, economic condition of potential markets, and other important factors," the papers said.

The next five on the list were Australia, United Arab Emirates, Singapore, Myanmar and Russia.

"Retail is a key part of Philippine Airlines' (PAL) long-term plan to open passenger routes to South America. Retail passengers mean routes to the Philippines that any other South American carrier," CAB said.

The Agency's submission also lists 18 million foreign tourists visiting the Philippines, up from 16 million in 2010.

The DOTC said tourism is the priority but may not necessarily be the biggest market for the country's airlines. The main factor would be the potential for growth.

Earlier this month, the Philippine Air Force, chaired by DOTC Undersecretary Jose Prospero Levina, signed a new Air Services Agreement with South Korea, increasing flights to and from the Philippines by 50 percent.

"South Korea is our number one source of inbound tourists, for a large enough Korea is also number one in the list of priority markets submitted by the Tourism department (DOTC)," the document said.

Globe launches Tokyo03 service to help subscribers

By Paolo G. Manzano

GLOBAL Telecom subscribers can now contact their friends and relatives in Japan as a feature of the cost as users can now make overseas calls at local rates.

In partnership with Japan-based company JPN, Inc., Globe recently launched Tokyo03, a mobile application for Apple iOS-based devices that offers "unprecedented value" to those making frequent calls to Japan.

Currently available for the iPhone, iPad and the iPod, and more to be available on the Android platform, Tokyo03 is an Internet phone application that enables the user a virtual number.

Virtual numbers function like regular numbers and can be reached through cell phones or landlines.

By giving users a virtual Globe number, Tokyo03 allows them in the Philippines to communicate with their contacts in Japan and be charged local rates simply by using a Globe number, as though he were in the same country as the person he is on the calling.

While those in Japan are charged rates usage fees for making calls in the Philippines through the Tokyo03 application, those in the Philippines who call their loved ones in Japan on their virtual number only need to pay local rates.

"Tokyo03 enables Philippine-based subscribers to save costs by letting them make international calls to their loved ones in Japan at highly reduced rates," the company said.

"This innovation [also] aims to serve the Filipino telecommunications market in Japan. As the world's largest foreign country in that country, Filipinos represent a large proportion of outbound calls, which have long been hampered by high international rates and fees," Globe said.

To obtain the application on the iOS platform, the user only needs to search for "Tokyo03" on the app store on the iPhone, iPod or iPad and download it. Once the application is downloaded, the user enters in his/her basic number details. The user will then be directed on-line to complete the registration process.

Once completed, the user can purchase a unique virtual number and start making and receiving calls to and from the Philippines.

Vehicle sales down in Q1

Automotive sector confident of recovery in 2012

By Amy K. Nolasco

Q1 2012 sales dropped by 4.1 percent in the first quarter as 32,000 units from 30,181 in the same period last year, although the automotive sector remains confident that it is on its way to a full recovery this year.

Renato Gutierrez, president of the Chamber of Automotive Manufacturers of the Philippines Inc. (CAMP), said in a briefing yesterday that the industry group expects a recovery this year due to the more stable supply of vehicles as production in Thailand has begun to normalize, as well as the introduction of new models.

Gutierrez said CAMP was looking to even surpass the target vehicle sales this year of 154,800 units, based on the monthly performance of the automotive sector.

"We need to revisit our projection of 154,800 units. It could be higher. We are looking to release our new projections, the latest by May this year. We can already see some stability in supply this year," Gutierrez added.

Based on the June report by Camp and the Truck Manufacturers Association (TMA), sales for March alone reached 12,603 units, up 17.6 percent compared to the previous month's sales of 10,781 units.

According to the report, sales of passenger cars in the January-March 2012 period dropped by 32 percent to 8,643 units compared to the 12,955 units sold during the same period last year.

Compared to the previous month, March sales of passenger cars rose by 46.7 percent to 4,341 units, given Honda City continued recovery.

Sales of commercial vehicles (CV) similarly fell by 3.4 percent in the first quarter of the year to 12,965 units from the previous year's 13,338 units.

Of the commercial vehicles, sales of Asian Utility Vehicles increased by 11.2 percent year-on-year to 9,223 units from 8,291 units.

Sales of light commercial vehicles declined by 10.3 percent to 12,923 units in the first three months of the year from a year-ago level of 14,720 units, while sales of light trucks similarly rose by 11.8 percent to 543 units in the same period from the previous year's 477 units.

Signa Motor Philippines Corp. maintained its top spot in the industry, as its sales as of mid-March this year reached 12,845 units, converting a market share of 38.78 percent.

Meanwhile, Rotax Philippines Corp. came second, with sales reaching 8,230 units during the same period, and grabbing a 25.24-percent market share.

On the third, fourth and fifth spots were Geac Philippines Corp., Honda Cars Philippines Inc. and Ford Motor Co. Philippines, respectively.

Biomass use urged to solve Mindanao power problems

By Amy R. Banta

LOCAL GOVERNMENT leaders are urging the government to consider biomass power as an alternative to coal-fired plants in the mountainous region of Mindanao, as the island's electricity demand grows.

In a statement, the Philippine Sugar Mills Association (PSMA) and the Mindanao Electric Corporation (MEC) urged the government to consider biomass power as an alternative to coal-fired plants in the mountainous region of Mindanao.

The group said that biomass power plants, such as cog and diesel, had been previously offered as the answer to the problem, according to the region's environmental and social impact assessment (ESIA).

"We urge policy makers to realize that biomass, being agriculture-based, possesses an inherent advantage over fossil fuels, which is generated in a manner from the production of various agricultural crops in the region. Biomass from agricultural residues is an effective way to solve the problem, as it does not harm the environment or the land," the group said.

Based on a study regarding production of 1 million tons of biomass, about 15 million tons of agricultural residues are generated by the mills in the region, the group said.

The group said that biomass power plants, such as cog and diesel, had been previously offered as the answer to the problem, according to the region's environmental and social impact assessment (ESIA).

PH eyes additional US sugar quota

By Rex T. Dela Cruz

THE PHILIPPINES is set to ask the United States to increase its sugar import quota to 1.5 million tons, according to industry figures. About 1.1 million tons of sugar had been produced in the country in 2011.

The target of 1.5 million tons is 24 million tons more than the 1.1 million tons in 2011. This puts current production at 36.5 percent of the target and the 2011 target at 24 percent.

Import Regulatory Administration officials said on March 25, 2012 that the target is a leading production target for the country's sugar industry.

Modern vintage dressing—floral prints and laces in pastels and retro shifts

JENSEN Spring/Summer 2012 collection demonstrates the power of modern vintage dressing, inspired by the popular '60s and '70s era. It emphasizes the extensive use of vintage handcraft techniques, floral prints, romantic hues and textured fabrics throughout the season.

The more striking of these elements contributes to the uniqueness of the Avonca collection. Chimeric shapes and more structured silhouettes are the new elements. The contrast of hard and soft, old and new elements dominates so well. Combined with Avonca's signature feminine details, a new modern storage look is introduced.

Strong reds and pinks to grays with variable black and white high-start the season. Flamingo, greenish, canella and shell pink create a beautiful color palette during the transition from white to color.

Resorting to resort wear to hit the global market

'Manila Wear' featured fashion with a tropical slant—and focused on the designs, not the designers

By Elin T. Vergara

IT WAS perhaps the first time in local fashion history that clothes and accessories were bigger than their designers. Eyeing the global market, 23 of the country's top apparel and accessories designers joined the recent "Manila Wear" show at SMDC Grand Showrooms, Pasig City.

Blind as a celebration of Philippine design and tropical lifestyle, the show was the most fashion in Manila 1980's fashion competition. Each designer presented a five-piece "resort wear" collection that combined creative uses of indigenous materials and techniques with imported fabrics and accessories for the high-end world market.

Spent time doing away with common sense, ramp in line of metal platforms, where models either stood or sat still, the organizers, led by show book-based designers and event curator Jane Nolasco, simply allowed the items instead of their designers to speak for themselves.

Provisional materials for guests and buyers at the entrance were flyers containing the designers' sketches and brief info about them and their collections.

Many in the audience familiar with these work were also left guessing as to who did what, as most of the designers had to work outside their signature looks and comfort zones, incorporating local fabrics like dyed jute and abaca with more conventional, more like cotton and jersey.

Raje Lizard even incorporated native fabric like handwoven rice straw, wigs and tops with sequined and beaded pieces.

Embroidery and beadwork

Dillon designers such as Jazzy Batack and Sandy Ortiz incorporated Philippine style embroidery and beadwork in their collections. The show also featured the works of indigenous designer Gerry Banga and local Pope, and show

Georgina Wilson now knows better than to put toothpaste on a pimple

By Mike Mark M. Saldaña
Contributor

BELIEVE IT or not, dancing model and TV host Georgina Wilson also gets acne, just like you and me. In fact, before she was in high school, she went to class with a blob of toothpaste covering a pimple on her cheek—and had it stay that whole day. As it was 7:00 a.m. to 3 p.m. Looking back at that now-legendary moment, Wilson says, “How could I have been so ignorant?”

Really, a lot of Filipinos are up there when it comes to facial skin care. There are still Filipino doctors who, after being asked to see the son of Vice President Arroyo, did not take time to take notes about people's facial skin care, habits and regimen. Wilson asked enough and she knows people must understand and the way to approach to find out that some of them are just soap-and-water, to be specific. But then, how can it be?

Wilson realized there's such a big need for Filipinos to learn more about facial skin care, she says.

GEORGINA WILSON now wants to educate Filipinos, especially teenagers, on facial skin care.

Back facial routine
The guys from Ginebra agree that Philippine general manager Amador de la Cruz, head coach that which they did a study in the country they found out that Filipino facial care routines are very basic. “They usually contain cleansers with what they have,” he says.

Some were satisfied that they were not happy with the products they're using but have no choice but to continue using them because they're buying used to it. They also found out that the Philippines has the lowest number of uses of facial skin products in the entire Southeast Asian region.

With the launch of Ginebra's new Pure Active line, Filipinos now have something new to help them address the common skin problems: pimples, whiteheads, whiteheads, enlarged pores, impurities and acne scars. The line is composed of a facial wash (that has 2 percent purifying salicylic acid, which exfoliates and unclogs pores), and a gentle cleanser that cleans and reduces the appearance of acne scars.

The brand's new line also includes skin toners, especially the new pure toner, aimed to not dry out the skin.

Big campaign
According to Wilson, they originally were supposed to do a big campaign. “I think they realized the necessity to educate Filipinos,” she says. “I think the way that the same people came out, the experts, it was so difficult to say products that it was too technical. It means that it was because it meant that just selling a product, it's educating the Filipinos. I've always been very passionate about education, and that's why this project means a lot to me.”

GEORGINA WILSON is educating a lot of teenagers on facial skin care.

Having said that, she also means the world to a lot of people, including Wilson. After all, it is more than just people that are not having skin problems, it's their self-esteem. That is why she takes good care of her skin. “I don't work up with perfectly clear skin. I actually have to do something about it,” she admits. “Bottling skin care, you really have to take time to take care of your skin. It's a commitment that you have to make.”

Gaultier exhibit the hottest ticket in San Francisco

"I am no great artist. As a designer, I want to be connected, be sensitive to what society wants"

By Lolita R. Corpuz
Coordinator

SAN FRANCISCO, CA—Jean Paul Gaultier's exhibition at M.H. de Young Museum in Golden Gate Park links the line between fine art and fashion. The multimedia exhibition includes 120 fashion sketches and 120 vintage designs created between the early 1970s and 2010.

From a visit to the Philippines in 1975 with other artists to taking over the house of Hermès in 1999, Gaultier has been all over the map. The exhibition includes sketches, sketches, and photographs, fashion sketches and video clips that spotlight Gaultier's 20-year career, including collaborations with rock bands, artists, choreographers and musicians, most notably Madonna.

Gaultier exhibit the hottest ticket in San Francisco

JPC agreed to do the exhibition, launched by the Museum of Fine Arts, as the condition that he refuse the usual art-theoretical analysis of his work, but a more provocative statement about that would show off his personal themes of equality, diversity and provocation.

Poetic vignettes

To make the pioneering exhibit happen, Gaultier pursued with the Montreal-based theater company Les Compagnons de l'Orion in designing an animated mannequin who tells and sings in playful and poetic vignettes. These like mannequins are fascinating to observe by themselves, but dressed in JPC's drag, the exhibit takes off more in beauty than "this pose." It is the first time in France, known for alternative lifestyles, and if the doublet movie with music even is any indicator, this will be one of the city's hottest tickets this summer.

"I wanted to create an exhibition on Jean Paul Gaultier more than any other country, because of his great humanity," explained Nathalie Bonaldi, director and chief curator of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. "Beyond the technical research, an artistic imagination, and providing an artistic collaboration, Gaultier offers an open-minded vision of society, a cross, sensitive, and away world in which everyone can exist. It is not just a fashion show, it is a human being in his own skin, through a unique human creation."

The exhibit got JPC his second awards from CFDA and AMFAR for his outstanding craftsmanship and ability to use his talent in subtle gender and transgender issues through sublimation and gender-bending styles. Asked his opinion on what he considers himself, JPC stated: "I don't accept that a woman has to be beautiful and just that—just that is rejected."

That explains his choice of mannequins, which even incorporated models for his runway shows. He commands people's attention by taking into the darker areas of the sexual revolution, addressing the issue of multiculturalism while bringing ethnic diversity to the fashion industry. Despite the gritty and controversial content of his collections, his clothes remain beautiful, especially crafted with the finest drapery and detailing skills.

Key thematic sections

The thematic installation is organized along six different thematic sections (listing the influences, from the streets of Paris to the world of white slacks), but have included the creator's creative development.

- "The Gilded of Jean Paul Gaultier" begins the exhibition with an exploration of the aesthetic Gaultier made—a gilded life and style created either due to all in fashion and fashion, spectacular mannequins and virgins. It includes the story with strong imagination and a special note by the designer himself.
- "The Gilded" explores Gaultier's relationship with beauty and underpinnings, relating to his earlier collaboration with Madonna for his "Gilded" series.

This gallery includes highlights of Gaultier's home-culture featuring with unusual materials and techniques on

- "Pink Cancer" features the delectable between the sexual aspects of French culture and the most popular of London.
- "Madonna" concludes the exhibition with a presentation of Gaultier's work for film, performance piece and his various albums with pop icons such as Kylie Minogue and Tina Turner.

- Fashion photography is also a major focus of attention, thanks to loans of more than 100 prints from renowned contemporary artists and photographers including Andy Warhol, Cindy Sherman, Irving Penn, David LaChapelle, Richard Avedon, Helmut Newton, Steven Meisel, Steven Klein, Steve Allen and Steven Pegg, Pierre et

Get a hold of a good clutch bag

CONFESION: I never really use the word to name it a clutch until last Friday recently. Why I didn't understand how an essential clutch could be an "essence" if I can't get quite enough use of it. After all, how often does one carry a clutch, anyway? It's small, soft, unstructured, and quite honestly not that easy to carry if you're used to carrying a bag.

Of late, however, the time to understand the need to have one good clutch. Clutches are no longer confined to dinner and cocktail parties. You can actually carry them during the day. Here are some clutches for the coming season, from the most showy and provocative to the most subtle and sophisticated.

It was the Fall/Winter 2012-13, when the "clutch" concept began to take hold. The clutch bag was the most popular item in the collection, and it's still the most popular item in the collection. # New treatment for in-dire-straits hair

Rebonding excess may damage the hair. Cream Silk has a new formula to take care of that

By Rita Y. Vergara

WOMEN WITH rebonded or straightened hair know the dilemma too well. You come out of the salon after a straightening treatment with the softest, frizz-free hair only to wake up a couple of strands (or even worse!) later with a perm-invested hair that refuses to respond to the most expensive shampoos and conditioners. In your desperation, you go back to the salon to finally straighten the situation out, and the cycle starts all over again.

Cream Silk now has a more sustainable solution for you. In a recent product launch hosted by K! Louane and the brand's newest celebrity endorser, Georgia Wilson, at The High in Downtown Global City, United Kingdom, the brand announced its new product line designed for women with chemically treated or straightened hair.

Endorsers including Vic Sotto and Anne Margaret described the product as a breakthrough in hair care, unlike ordinary hair conditioners. Perfect for Cream Silk's new formula using "Silk" technology.

Said to be 1,000 times smaller than most technology-based technology, the product is penetrate up to three layers of the hair strand and work its way into the cortex, curls to help gradually restore and repair straightened hair from root to tip, making it shiny, soft and full-bodied.

Stressed treatment

"A growing number of Filipinas today have to go to salons and have hair treatments stress to straighten, who or where their hair is," said Sotto. "Over time, these treatments destroy the hair, making hair break as fall and as broken as hair itself. This product line was developed to help."

Perfect for Cream Silk comes in a range of products that you either leave in or wash off. Full-bodied Straight Daily Treatment Conditioner, leave-in Treatment Mist, leave-in Cream Leave On, and Detangling Spray.

"We will carry direct variants of Cream Silk," Margillo clarified. "This line is for women with straightened hair because they regularly have their hair straightened."

Customers also pointed out that perhaps the brand knows the hair care needs of Filipinas women better than Cream Silk. Unlike its competitors, the brand was conceived and made in the Philippines for Filipinas.

"We understand Filipinas women's needs because we really talk to them," he said. "Through the years, Cream Silk has become the most trusted brand of conditioner in the Philippines. It is well known, but it's not a hair care brand."

Wilson's headquarters is in London, but the multinational company also has research centers in Bangkok, Shanghai and Manila. If the trend hair market in the Philippines is worth P25 billion, said Margillo, 45 percent of that comes from sales of hair conditioners.

"We honestly don't know how long it took Enders to develop this latest product," she said. "Our huge research and development team work on these things, and it's a continuous process. Each time, we learn more from what we've learned through the years. It's not like we've learned something from Cream Silk's research."

Unlike where they have their hair regularly straightened, users are in no danger of "over-conditioning" it with their hair. Cream Silk is designed not to "straighten" their existing hair.

In fact, the more you wash, the more it becomes "softer," said Margillo. "Since the objective is to straighten your hair, the product is not designed to be harsh. It's meant to bring back your hair's natural look."

The premium product line is a lot more expensive than Cream Silk's regular line. But it's probably a small price you pay to ensure hair that has been treated from being chemically processed over time.

Q 101: There have been great interests in developing cell therapies. However, patients are not getting the best services. How can we improve the quality of the services?

A 101: One big improvement has been the standardizing of cell and different, major diseases. This applies to all medical services with diseases.

Q 102: How can we make it so that we can have a better quality of life for patients, as well as a better quality of life for patients?

A 102: They are becoming increasingly dependent on the services. They are not getting the best services. They are not getting the best services. They are not getting the best services.

California dreamin' with 'Eat Bulaga'

By Reynold San Diego Jr.

SAN FRANCISCO—The center's rising starlet, actress, and Missa Chua-Ping, senior vice president and chief operating officer of "Entertainment and Production" (E&P), producer of the GMA 7 sensation show "Eat Bulaga."

The cast and crew crew members last night were in California, along the Pacific coast, to hold a one-night concert dubbed "Eat Bulaga Live: The Concert" at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Like the other cast members, they're all from the Philippines, and some significant problems with their travel papers, the GMA 7 program.

Low ticket, where each fanbase at home, daily shows, the selling items, and food service were performed, but the "Eat Bulaga" in time for the long Holy Week holiday explained Pags.

After the concert, the main hosts presented to Los Angeles, then San Diego and New York.

During the week-long trip, "Eat Bulaga" and its hosts and guests tried out the golf course in Palo Alto and San Francisco. They said for Miss Chua-Ping's TFC. Harding Park course later. "That's where the President's Cup and other big tournaments are held," they said.

The duo also played in Los Angeles' Trump National Golf Club. "We can't do without golf," they said.

Jon Hamm mad about his girl

"WE MAKE up for each other's deficiencies very much," Ann Hansen said of his durable relationship with Jonathan Winkler, his girlfriend of 15 years.

In a recent interview, the "Bird Man" was explained away by said brother: "I've stayed together and now, how they are surviving the challenges of working on an indie film, 'Friends With Kids.' I actually wrote, stars in and directs the movie. And also I'm now Adam from and Maya Park."

"Friends," he tells Rolling Stone's latest project. He tells us, "I'm proud of something, it's that it only takes one yes." He was referring to his struggling years in Los Angeles, where he worked as a waiter and set a self-imposed deadline to make it in Hollywood when he turned 30.

If that didn't happen, Jon planned to improve his acting through roles he sought out, such as his high school drama teacher ("The Breakfast Club") and "The Other" actress Elle Kemper was his student. Jon has been quoted saying that he did not want to end up as "one of those actors who are in

How I went from 4XL to MEDIUM

MY OVERWEIGHT
DESPERATION LED ME TO

like many women out there, I'm under the delusion that going on a strict diet was about the only way to lose excess pounds. I tried various diet diets plans and lost some weight, but every time I stopped, those pounds would creep back in - plus more than before. Glucose is on my song card to, suggest me to, I realized it wasn't worth it. Crash diets just led to yo-yoing in my weight. Even the new low-diet that cost thousands for a program, is not they are basically the same as any other diet, so why would I pay for something I can simply find on Google?

HORMONAL INJECTIONS SOUNDLED GOOD BUT...

compared with an experiment in which just 250 calories a day, if injections wouldn't work, why do I mind the diet?" "Why wouldn't lose weight on only 250-calories a day—if you don't die of hunger in the process?" "It'd be a total failure. If I worried that I would have foreign hormones injected into my body, it's not unusual, something bad could happen to my system. Think on... Is it really worth the risk?"<sup>14</sup>

RECOMMENDED MARIE

the mid- to late 1980s. Marie France had dreamed her dream, how easy and simple it had been. I was eager to get it all at a try. But I wondered if their system was just another program that subjected you to extreme diets. Fortunately, I was wrong. Marie France simply helped me adopt sensible eating habits which led to a sustainable lifestyle change. With their treatment and without having to follow a diet, I lost my excess weight! From a whopping 170 lbs., just look at me now—slimmer, healthier, and firmed up with no sagging skin. Most of all, I know the excess weight won't come back!

Some people wrongly believe a Marie France program is expensive, actually it's only about equivalent to your annual gym membership. The difference is, with Marie France you'll get great results in less than 3 months - seeing those five pounds disappear in just a couple of weeks. And you get professional help and guidance from qualified nutritionists who counsel you on your food and drink choices, and doctors who monitor your progress ensuring you lose weight safely.

IT WORKS
IT COMES
WEDDING
CARD

The Marie Franco slimming system is proven, and it comes with a Money-Back Guarantee. If you don't achieve your target weight, and you're not satisfied with the program, you get money back. In fact, you're not nothing to lose with Marie Franco except your stress (at least if Marie Franco were not totally confident that this program worked, they wouldn't offer you a money-back guarantee. With an offer like that, why should you choose any other alternative?)

When it comes to losing weight, there's no such thing as magic or miracle. If you're not fully committed, you can't expect to get real results. Marie France worked for me because it offered a simple, reliable, insured approach that a busy woman like me can adhere to. In just 35 minutes, I could burn as much as 1,000 to 2,000 calories... that's equivalent to running for one and a half hours. I lost muscle and inches without feeling tired.

or hungry. It was perfect
for me.

My XXL body is now a thing of the past.
Thanks to Marie-
France, I no longer worry that
I'll be fat for life.

Jon Hamm mad... (except at)

you're in with a shot!

Your Don Draper character looks very different on "Mad Men." In what way would you personally like to live?

I like the present. I like the airplanes, really nice cars and penthouses. Although the '60s and '70s were great times in this country, especially for a wealthy white male, but I prefer now. I have my phone.

You and Jennifer have been together for 13 years. Can you talk about how everything together as a project like "Friends With Kids" may have tested your relationship?

For complementary cast roles, after 13 years together, it's a good place to be at. We make up for each other's differences very nicely. I mentioned earlier saying that she's very casual, stressed and hyper about everything. She's a little more laid back and tends to be like, "Get over it."

I think those traits can be mixed up to a fault. I can be so laid back that I tend to fall asleep. She has to be hyperactive that she won't fall asleep. The balance really often is in that regard. I think that is what has contributed to our longevity as a couple. We're also very honest and upfront with each other. We don't hide anything from each other. If something bothers us, we air it out with it and move on. It's a very adult way of dealing with problems.

Any reason why you didn't play the lead in Her Film?

When you're a couple in real life and you play a couple in real life,

I tell kids who want to pursue acting that they're going to hear no a lot, so they should get used to it.

can be confusing for an audience. I think it's a little repetitive and weird. It would be harder to explain or address my personality for those of the character. I've decided to let it go. I've decided to let it go. I've decided to let it go.

How did you and Jennifer meet? We were both involved with other people when we met, so there was no immediate explosion. It was more of a slow burn. I met her at a friend's party. About a year later, we started dating.

You had difficult challenges in your younger years, but you stayed on top of everything. What motivated you?

I had amazing teachers in my life who were very important to me. And I was not too young and stupid to think that I was smarter than them. I had my parents when I was young. I had my godfather when I was young. I had my best friend when I was young. I had my best friend when I was young.

years, and I still look at them that way. I'm very close with the friends I grew up with and their families. I'm not going to say that I don't have any sense of humor and poor decisions along the way. That's part of growing up. We need to learn from them.

I decided to move back to my life that I was going to come to Los Angeles, try to be an actor and make money. Acting was the only thing I had any training in, so even if I had enough money to move back, I would go back. I moved back to Los Angeles and came out here.

I was determined to head to give it a shot. That was another thing that the teachers in my life taught me that because you fail at something doesn't mean it's permanently over. Get back up, brush yourself off and move forward. That's the one thing I still take into me and have, who want to pursue acting. "You're going to fail. You're a bit, so get used to it." It's the most of anything, it's that it takes just one day.

Do you plan to direct eventually?

I did direct one episode of "Mad Men" this year. For directing, I've been a little different from directing TV programs. Recently, directing on TV is making me the most aware of the crew, whereas directing film is concentrating on the crew. I have no desire to do that.

After a century, Titanic's truths are revealed

By Oliver H. Pomeroy
Contributor

A HUNDRED years after Titanic went down, showing Channel's new home special, "Titanic: Mystery Solved," answers long-held questions about the sinking of the ill-fated vessel.

In an exclusive phone interview with the program, Gail Lindahl, the cable network's executive producer of historical programs, and series producer, Pomeroy, discuss how this summer undertaking took nearly three years to finish.

"Previous expeditions only photographed the bow and the stern of the ship," Lindahl said. "What was photographed and photographed was only 60 percent of what's down there. The remaining 40 percent that you'll see here are segments of Titanic that no one knew existed. Well, we all the pieces and put the story of the ship together, which will forever be used by anybody who wants to study the Titanic."

Lindahl, of Antennae Underwater Technology, watched the wreck site. Collected data were printed and "computerized" into a single image, Pomeroy said. Some segments from different technical fields took their expertise in the effort.

DEMOYER: "The mystery has a half-century imagination."

"The expedition was unique in a number of ways—in technology certainly, but also in the team's makeup," Pomeroy added. "There was tremendous diversity in the first professional families that were involved. I don't think any previous expedition had had such a broad and deep range of scientific and engineering expertise and resources."

Lindahl and Pomeroy agreed that this collaboration was crucial in the painstaking task of studying thousands of pieces that were sent several square miles.

Unique origins

"The expedition took place in the beginning of fall in 2010, but planning started about a year before that," Lindahl noted. "When the expedition was over, it took a year and a half to analyze the findings. Literally hundreds, perhaps thousands of hours of research had to be done, reviewed, analyzed and compared by all the different agencies that were involved in the expedition."

The Titanic disaster is a unique origin that has baffled and captured generations, Lindahl said. Lindahl and Pomeroy think the story of Titanic has an enduring appeal as human imagination for a number of reasons, Pomeroy said. "It's a tragedy in a way, but it's also a triumph, one that's not about the loss of a ship, but about the triumph of the human spirit. And of course, when we think of the human spirit, it's about the human side of it where you can think about that right without anything. 'What would have done it had been there? I think that for all these reasons, it's a story that we can imagine, and in a way, it's human."

"It's a tragedy, people believe it's a tragedy, but it's also a triumph, one that's not about the loss of a ship, but about the triumph of the human spirit.
